

500 LUTHERANS HEAR DR. SMITH AT ST. JAMES

POLICE PROBE THEFT OF CASH

Borough police today were continuing their investigation of the reported theft of between $60 and $100 Friday night or early Saturday morning from the apartment of Mrs. Jennie Mitchell, over Mitchell's restaurant, Center Square, with the prediction of an "early arrest in the case."

Mrs. Violet Hill, Mrs. Mitchell's daughter, reported to police that the money, contained in a cigar box, had been taken from a buffet in the second floor apartment. She was unable to place the exact amount taken, police said. Mrs. Mitchell is out of town.

Police said they found that a rear window had been "jimmied," as had the door to the buffet. The burglar had apparently climbed a fire escape to the roof at the rear of the building, Harpster said.

For A Bigger And Better GETTYSBURG

This is the fifth in a series of nine articles by nine representative citizens of Gettysburg on what, in their estimation, are the three most important community projects for Gettysburg.

DR. ABDEL ROSS WENTZ

President, Lutheran Seminary

Answering your question, let me say that in my opinion the three most important things that Gettysburg should undertake as community projects are the following:

Community Center

First: a Community Center and Playground. Many a community of our size is providing its children and youth with better moral safeguards than we are. Moreover, there are many enterprises which every community ought to foster and most communities do foster but which Gettysburg has no community center. Our civic pride and our community achievement would be considerably elevated over its present level if there would be a place and an organization to cultivate civic righteousness and community life. Along with this would go better policing of our streets at night so as to make our citizens safer from disorderly visitors who come in from the county and other communities.

Special Education

Second: a service of Special Education in our public schools. Our educational system in this community will continue to lag behind that of other enterprising communities until we make it possible to give special attention in our schools to two kinds of pupils, those who can proceed more rapidly than the average pupil and those who must proceed more slowly than the average. This service is provided by the state for our rural schools in this county and with excellent results. Gettysburg should not lag behind Adams county or other up-to-date Boroughs in this important matter.

Lincoln Monument

Third: an attractive Lincoln Monument on our public square. Wherever I go in the world, whether in America or Europe or Asia, when I tell people that I live in Gettysburg, they usually speak first about Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. Yet tens of thousands of people pass through Gettysburg every year without being reminded that this is a Lincoln shrine. It would increase our civic pride and enhance our town's reputation far and wide if we should erect some artistic statue of Abraham Lincoln in the middle of our Center Square.

Dr. Abdel Ross Wentz, President of Lutheran Seminary, is one of the nine representative citizens of Gettysburg who are contributing to a series of nine articles on community projects for the town.

APPLE-EATING CONTEST LISTED

An apple eating contest was announced today by the Halloween celebration chairman, Paul Miller, as an added attraction of Gettysburg's observance of Goblin day, Wednesday evening.

Ropes are to be strung on the YWCA corner of the square the night of the parade and apples will be tied to the ropes by strings. The youngsters will then eat the apples off the strings without using their hand with the one devouring his apple quickest to win a prize of $2, and $1 bills to be given to the three next speediest eaters.

The apple contest will be held following the parade at the same time that a band concert will be presented on the Zerfing's side of the square and a soaping contest will be held on the Rea and Derick windows, Chairman Miller said.

For more than five years, delivery of mail was delayed in the Emmitsburg-Rocky Ridge areas because of a change in the Western Maryland railroad schedule. The Western Maryland train left twenty minutes before the arrival in Thurmont of the Hagerstown and Frederick Railway trolley from Frederick. As a result, the mail for Emmitsburg, Rocky Ridge and other points east, was held in Thurmont until a later train and persons in rural areas were a day late in receiving their daily papers and other mail.

Much of the credit for getting the star route extended, it was explained, is due the Emmitsburg Grange, which circulated a petition and forwarded the signatures to (Please Turn to Page 2)

SAYS 'OLD TIME RELIGION' CURE FOR JUVENILES

"It's high time for the teaching of more of the good, old-fashioned religion in the home," L. V. Boardman, special agent in charge of the Philadelphia office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, declared in an address in the Methodist church here Sunday evening on "The American Crime Problem."

"Our young people need to know more about Almighty God," he asserted as he warned that "the current wave of crime, if it continues, will lead to a veritable war by criminals the likes of which this nation has never known." A "substantial portion" of today's crimes are committed by persons under voting age, he told the audience.

Declaring that the nation's crime problem is a challenge to Christian citizenship, he said the crime wave for the first six months of this year was the greatest the nation ever knew, increasing 13 per cent over 1945 figures. Rural areas have showed the most drastic increase this year, he added.

"Don't Blame Veterans"

"This crime wave is not chargeable to the returning veterans but to the youngsters who lacked proper attention while their older brothers were off fighting the war and their parents were too busy to care for them," Mr. Boardman declared as he urged churches and schools to supplant the barroom and poolroom with guidance and recreation programs that will fulfill the obligations those institutions hold in their communities. He compared respect for law to the respect parents should hold for the obligations imposed by society on them for the proper rearing of their children.

"If drastic action is not taken to solve juvenile delinquency we will have gangs, murders and kidnappings in numbers that will dwarf the crime wave of the middle 30s. Hijacking mobs are being formed now in Philadelphia and other big cities." Mr. Boardman told of the qualifications and training of a special agent of the FBI and of their investigative work and the services performed by their fingerprint and laboratory divisions.

The men of the church had arranged the service, Prof. George R. Larkin was in charge.

Tribute was paid by the pastor, the Rev. Floyd A. Carroll to the Girl Scouts and Brownies who attended the service in observance of Girl Scout Week and took part in the service.

INDIA POINTS
OBJECT LESSON
ON PEACE ROAD

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

It has remained for oriental India to give our bickering world a practical demonstration that even the most bitter quarrels are susceptible of adjustment.

Destiny works by curious and devious means, and one finds it difficult not to see in the sensational Moslem-Hindu truce at New Delhi a striking object lesson for the United Nations Assembly as it gets under way. For the greatest immediate service which our assembly could render would be to find a way of bridging the dangerous gulf between the Russian dominated Slavic bloc and the Western Allies.

Through long generations the Hindus and the Moslems have waged their often bloody warfare—at first religious and racial but finally inextricably mixed with politics. Indeed, even as this is being written there has arrived a cable from Calcutta reporting further disorders which have cost many lives during the past week.

Achieve "Impossibility"

Still, up in New Delhi the week-end saw the completion of a coalition cabinet for the new provisional Indian government which is the forerunner of independence. That cabinet comprises both Moslems and Hindus, a circumstance which only a few weeks ago many people held to be an impossibility.

Now of course it would be foolish to assume that everything will be plain sailing from now on, or even that this first government won't collapse. That would be placing too much confidence in human nature.

There are still many problems to be solved, and one of them is the burning desire of the Moslems for Pakistan—an independent state of their own, which has provided the main stumbling block in the protracted negotiations. It's safe to assume that Mohamed Ali Jinnah, the brilliant leader of the Moslem league, hasn't abandoned the hope that is some way he may achieve the goal of Pakistan.

However, the all important fact is that at long last Jinnah has compromised on Pakistan, at least temporarily, in order to get the interim government going. And the Hindus—who outnumbered the Moslems three to one—have made concessions to the Moslems in the matter of cabinet positions.

This even if a fresh crisis should overtake the new government, the spirit of conciliation displayed has flung a rainbow across the Indian sky.

Expect Truman To Hold This Cabinet

Washington, Oct. 28 (AP)—Highly placed administration officials said today President Truman will try to keep his present cabinet intact during the year ahead.

One top rank aide, describing Mr. Truman's primary personnel problem as the accumulation of vacancies in other high level posts, added: "Everybody seems to talk about cabinet changes except the boss himself."

The official, in daily touch with the chief executive, said Mr. Truman will be guided largely by the wishes of Secretary of State Byrnes in naming a new ambassador to London. W. Averell Harriman was brought home recently to replace the ousted Henry A. Wallace as commerce secretary after Wallace took issue with Byrnes' foreign policy.

Stevadore, 24, Is Electrocuted Today

Bellefonte, Pa., Oct. 28 (AP)—Silent and calm to the last, Frederick Morris, 24-year-old Chester stevedore, was electrocuted at Rockview penitentiary early today for the slaying of Mrs. Rose Lyons Reynolds, 49, in a Chester park last April.

Led into the death chamber shortly after midnight, the stocky stevedore man settled himself as comfortably as possibly into the electric chair as the straps were adjusted at 12:31 a.m. Three minutes later he was pronounced dead by Dr. R. E. Carrier, the prison physician.

Through his last day Morris received no visitors, and made no special request to Dr. J. W. Claudy, the penitentiary warden. Claudy said Morris was given cigarettes and writing paper after being brought here from the Delaware county jail Saturday, but prison officials said they knew of no last message.

The assistant Secretary of the Navy told more than 30,000 persons attending the commissioning of the heavy cruiser U. S. S. Toledo yesterday.

Bullets Lose 12-7 To NYU On 45-Yard Touchdown Run In Final Minutes Of Play

A 45-yard run by Fred Burgess, New York university safety man, on a punt with less than one and one-half minutes of play remaining sent the Gettysburg college football team to a heart-breaking 12-7 defeat Saturday afternoon before 5,000 fans in Ohio field in the Bronx.

The last few minutes of the contest packed plenty of drama and excitement.

Coch "Hen" Bream's lads were deep in Violet territory with little more than five minutes to go but lost the ball on downs on the 18. NYU then put on a march and moved to the Gettysburg 4 with two minutes of play remaining. Burgess, who later turned out to be the hero for the Violets, fumbled on the Bullet four with Al Smith recovering for Gettysburg.

It looked as though that bobbie put the clincher on the game for the Bream-men. However, Charley Rambo punted out and Burgess took the ball on the Bullet 45, hit for the side-line and raced the entire way for a score. Capozzoli's try for the extra point was blocked by Smith.

A fight started following the play and the Bullets received a 15-yard penalty on the following kick-off. Joe Cervino ran 15 yards on the next play as the game ended.

Rambo Scores
The Bullets held the lead from late in the first period. Cauffman, Bullet end, recovered a Violet fumble on the N.Y.U.'s 45. On the third down Ray Kreider whipped a 40-yard pass to Rambo on the 10 and he raced over for a score. Joe Cervino added the point on a placement.

In the second period the Bullets made a strong bid for another score when they moved to the Violets' five. However, Mondschein intercepted a pass on the next play. NYU then launched a drive which carried them to the Gettysburg 24 but at that point the Bullets took over.

The Violets struck suddenly in the third period. Capozzoli returned the opening kickoff to his 43. Novotny hit the line for five yards. On the next play Capozzoli passed to Depaso and the latter raced 42 yards for a tally. Kavazanjian fumbled the pass from center on the try for the extra point which permitted Cauffman time to block Capozzoli's boot for the point.

Twice in the final period NYU threatened mildly and then the Bullets drove to the 18 before the thrilling action mentioned before took place.

For Gettysburg it marked its third defeat as against two wins. It was the third win in four starts for NYU.

Next Saturday the Bullets will attempt to get back into the win column when they meet Bucknell, 29-0 conqueror of Lafayette on Saturday, at Lewisburg.

Only in the east, where the Big Fifteen has been split up into two groups, can a team be found that outclasses all opposition. The Allentown Canaries, chalking up the twelfth straight in two years of competition, took the measure of Minersville 54-14 to make it 279 points for the seven games played this year, or an average of better than a point-a-minute.

Eastern Leaders
Nesquehoning moved into the lead in the Eastern conference's southern division by crushing Mt. Carmel township under a 34-0 score; Lansford remained unbeaten in conference competition with a 26-0 win over Tamaqua; Minersville, first team to jolt Kulpmont, stayed in third place despite the shellacking at Allentown in a non-conference tilt; and Shenandoah was fourth.

In the northern division Blakely and Kingston remained unbeaten, while Danmore forged into the title struggle with a 26-0 win over Scranton Tech.

Huntingdon, triumphant in 22 straight games for the longest current winning streak in state ranks, tied unbeaten Bellwood-Antis for the Western conference lead, while unbeaten Fernside was right behind in the battle down the stretch. Huntingdon's latest win was a 12-0 victory at Hollidaysburg, the last team to stop Jack Melody's defending champions. Bellwood-Antis showed plenty of power in crushing Roaring Spring, 26-0; while Fernside nosed out Bedford in a torrid struggle, 8-7.

In the WPIAL, ranks Altoona turned back Windber, 20-13; Ambridge took the measure of Sharon, 30-0; New Kensington crushed Scott, 33-6; Vandergrift won from Har-Brack, 13-0, while Duquesne, fifth contender for the championship, dropped a non-league game to Kiski Prep, 18-14, but the setback did not affect their chances for the title.

Meadville Beaten
In the northwest Erie academy kept up its streak shattering tricks by handing Meadville its first setback, 15-13; Erie East turned back East High of Akron, Ohio, 14-6; and Bradford, beaten for the first time two weeks ago by Erie academy, showed some of its early season power by crushing Kane, 39-0.

Harrisburg Catholic was held to a 12-12 deadlock by William Penn after winning its first six starts, but the deadlock gave the Crusaders the Harrisburg city title. Steelton remained unbeaten by halting Lancaster's winning streak, 24-7; Meyers High of Wilkes-Barre won its ninth straight at the expense of Coughlin, 12-0; unbeaten Pottstown beat West Chester, 32-7; Nazareth stayed unbeaten with a 19-0 win over Pen Argyle; and Hershey neared its second South Penn conference crown with a 26-0 win over Carlisle.

It is to be pointed out that weekly standing is computed on the basis of all the conference games played, but that final standing will be computed on the basis of only four games during the 1946 season. All losses and ties must be counted in these four games. This means that a team which played five conference games will not count the win which gave them the smallest number of points.

EAGLES DEFEAT REDSKINS 28-24
By RALPH RODEN
New York, Oct. 28 (AP)—Races in the two divisions of the National Football league were tightened considerably today as a result of Steve Owen's New York Giants downing the previously unbeaten Chicago Bears 14-0 at the Polo grounds.

That victory yesterday elevated the Giants to Eastern division leadership as the Philadelphia Eagles came from behind to beat the Redskins at Washington 28-24 and push them down to second place.

Despite their loss, the Bears remained atop the Western division since the Chicago Cardinals trounced the champion Los Angeles Rams 34-10 in the Windy City, thus prevented the Rams moving into a first place deadlock with the Bears. The Green Bay Packers replaced the Rams as runners-up by scoring a hard-fought 10-7 win over the tailend Detroit Lions at Milwaukee.

Gets Luckman Pass
More than 62,000 fans watched Frank Filchock and Frank Leibell lead the Giants to victory. Leibell intercepted a Sid Luckman pass on the Bear 47 in the second period, and four minutes later the end from Norwich college snared a Filchock aerial in the end zone. Early in the third period, Filchock faded to pass but was unable to find a receiver, so the former understudy of Washington's slinging Sammy Baugh dashed 16 yards for the second touch.

In Washington, the Skins were coasting along behind a 24-0 advantage when Tommy Thompson and the Eagles exploded in the second half to win the game. Thompson hurried three touchdown passes as the Eagles scored four times. Jack Ferrante gathered in Thompson's final toss with only 90 seconds to go on the goal line for the deciding marker.

The Pittsburgh Steelers scored 27 points in the second half to trim the Boston Yanks 33-7 at Boston. The win moved the Steelers close to the third place Eagles. It was the Yank's fifth straight loss.

Bill Dudley, the circuit's leading ground-gainer, scored twice and converted twice in addition to picking up 35 yards in eight tries for the Steelers.

Buffalo Bisons Hit Their Stride
(By The Associated Press)
The Buffalo Bisons, defending American hockey league champions, are back on their winning ways after getting off to a poor start.

Losing two out of their first four games, the Bisons since have won two straight and tied another, and today they were only one point away from the Indianapolis capitalists, western division leaders.

The Bisons gained two points on the Caps over the weekend by defeating Hershey and St. Louis while the Caps tied the Flyers and Pittsburgh.

After handing the Bears, Eastern division leaders, their first loss of the year Saturday, the Bisons nosed out the Flyers 2-1 last night for their initial home victory.

Hershey bounced back from its defeat by Buffalo to beat the Providence Reds 6-4. Indianapolis deadlocked the Hornets 4-4.

In the only other game last night, the Philadelphia Rockets gained their first win of the year by whipping the New Haven Ramblers 5-3.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO
Money Wanted: The National Government has published proposals for a loan of FIVE MILLIONS of dollars, and issued THREE MILLIONS of Treasury Notes. The Government is represented as being in an embarrassed condition. No wonder!

In Carlisle, on the 22d inst., by the Rev. Mr. Fisher, the Rev. William Copley Bennett, of East Berlin, Adams county, to Miss Elizabeth Brehm, of Boiling Spring, Cumberland county.

Hon. James Cooper: The handsome vote received in this county by Mr. Cooper, at the late election, is made the subject of a very general remark throughout the State. The "signs of the times" indicate that he will be the nominee of the Whig party for governor.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Frightened: The team of Henry Culp, (farmer), was frightened, on Monday morning at the hoghead in the diamond, in which gas had been manufactured for the balloon ascension. Becoming unmanageable, the team dashed against the gas post in front of Wolf and Bollinger's store, breaking the post and carrying with it the business sign of the firm. The driver by this time recovered control of the team and no further damage was done.

Married: Shultz-Reiley—On the 24th inst., by the Rev. S. Breidenbaugh, Mr. John Shultz, of Hanover to Miss Sallie A. M. Reiley, of this place.

Mission and Forty Hours' Devotion: On Sunday, October 15th, Forty Hours' Devotion was begun in St. Francis Xavier's church, this place. The High Mass of Exposition was said by Rev. J. B. Emig, S.J., who also preached a series of very interesting and instructive sermons at the late masses, every evening during the Devotions. The altar was beautifully decorated with

Today's Talk

CAPACITY TO UNDERSTAND
We live in a world of capacities. We measure and compare by them. We go into a great hotel that has the capacity to house over 2,000 guests. We read of the new air liners that have the capacity to go so many miles per minute, and to carry so many passengers. We speak of a public man or woman as having the capacity to do certain things, and no more.

The most important capacity, however, is the capacity to understand. That is what is troubling this world. We lack the capacity to understand people who do not think as we think. We confine so much of our judgments upon surface knowledge. We can well go a long way with the one who we feel has the capacity to understand. That makes the patient teacher, and makes possible the genius for lasting friendships.

None of us knows his own capacity, however, nor do we know the capacity of anyone else, even though we think we do. The more we learn, the more we are stimulated to increase our capacity, not only to know more, but to understand better. Responsibility enlarges the capacity of anyone, or shows up its lack.

It was indeed a limited few who saw in the ability of Abraham Lincoln the latent capacity to rule a great nation. And how that capacity for understanding, patience, tolerance, courage, and tact increased with the years, as greater and greater responsibility was added to his shoulders to bear! And how outstanding his humility through those tragic years! Here was an outstanding example of a man who seemed to be born with the capacity to understand.

What a weight of fear would fall from the shoulders of all humanity if it could be believed that Mr. Stalin had the capacity to understand the aims and ideals of those who only want peace and the opportunity to live happily. If he but had the capacity to understand that no nation upon this earth wants war, or to start one!

I was a guest at the Roycroft Inn, at East Aurora, New York, many years ago, and Mrs. Elbert Hubbard, the Second, told me of a time when she was very ill. She loved horses, and rode one nearly every day. One day Elbert Hubbard, Senior, came into her room, silently left a new saddle and walked out. It gave her a great lift, she said, and then remarked: "Elbert always understood."

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Footholds."

Just Folks

THE YOUNGER GENERATION
Every generation wearies; tires of keeping at its best.

On the past, and all its triumphs, it sits down awhile to rest. Then the younger and the stronger and the braver must step in. As their fathers did before them, with the will to work and win.

Those who built the better city, in their years of strength and pride, Come to twilight with the splendor of their past full satisfied. Gone the days when they by visions of new conquests were inspired. They have spent their strength for struggle; they are old and they are tired.

'Tis the sons that they have fathered, with the fire of purpose filled. And their future all before them, who the better way must build. Since men's work is never finished, 'tis the young who must believe. Opportunity awaits them, and go forward to achieve.

flowers, and the music of the choir was rendered. The Devotion closed on Tuesday evening, October 24, with a procession of the Blessed Sacrament, which was participated in by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Boll, Father Emig and the Sunday School children.—Complier.

The Visiting Firemen: Last week we briefly alluded to the visit of the Allentown and York Firemen to Gettysburg on the 19th inst. During the afternoon the Bands accompanying the visitors gave complimentary "serenades" in various parts of town, including the STAR and SENTINEL office. At 6 o'clock the visitors left in a special train, stopping at Hanover for a torch-light parade; thence to York. The "Good Will" of Allentown, stopped at the Eagle Hotel, and the "Vigilants," of York, at the Key-stone.

Died: Musselman.—On the 25th inst., at his residence near Fairfield, Hon. John Musselman, aged 61 years, 11 months and 13 days.

Serfdom in England was a product of the Norman conquest.

SLOW AND FAST METHODS FOR COMPOST GIVEN

Regularly every fall bonfires of fallen leaves inspire sermons about the folly of destroying material which could be changed into precious humus, to maintain organic matter in garden soils.

Relatively few gardeners heed these suggestions, however, perhaps because the methods of making a compost pile tend to be elaborate, and may seem too much trouble for the quantity of compost they produce.

There is still no good reason for burning leaves. If a neat, orderly and well screened compost pile is too much trouble, the leaves will decay without it; and few home grounds lack a corner where they can be piled or spread and left without any attention whatever until transformed into precious leaf mould. This takes time, perhaps two years, but once the annual practice is established, then every year a crop of leaves, thoroughly decayed, is available for spreading on your garden.

Methods of management, which may seem elaborate, are justified on two points, first they can speed up the rate of decay, so that compost is available in one year instead of two; and second, where room is at a premium, they confine the compost pile in reduced space, and improve its appearance.

Hastened by Manure
To speed decay, the growth of the bacteria which cause decay is stimulated. There are two methods of doing this. These bacteria are present in decaying manure, so that when a small quantity of manure is spread through the compost pile, their number is increased and their activity hastened. They consume nitrogen, so if they are fed, so to speak, with nitrogen they will increase in number and decay will be hastened. If manure is lacking, or there is objection to using it, commercial cultures of these bacteria are now available, and can be used instead. Nitrogen can be supplied by mixing chemical fertilizer with the compost material.

Any organic matter can be used in a compost heap; and this means table refuse from the house. But it is not practical to use it except in a managed pile, where it can be covered with earth to kill odor.

Simple Method
The simplest way of creating a managed compost pile is to set aside a suitable location, out of the way, and preferably screened by planting, or a fence; 10 x 10 feet would be an average size. Clean off all vegetation, and harden the surface soil by rolling. Pile evenly over this area all dead leaves and other waste plant and even animal material, from your garden, and from kitchen wastes. But carefully exclude, if you would avoid trouble, all wood, branches, twigs and metal objects. When the layer, well tramped down, is six inches thick, sprinkle it with a balanced fertilizer mixture, about one ounce to a square yard. Wood ashes and limestone are also beneficial, each in three or more times this quantity. Then wet it down.

Build up the heap, layer by layer, with similar applications between the layers; and keep it moist. If bad odors develop an inch of soil thrown on top of the pile will prevent them. When the pile is as high as you can conveniently manage, cover the top with soil and let it stand until you are ready to dig the humus into the garden. Start a new one to take care of current accumulations.

Beekeeping Is Public Service

"The principal role of the honey-bee is not in the production of honey and beeswax as is commonly supposed, but in the pollination of agricultural crops for the production of seed and fruit." This somewhat new appraisal of the honey-bee's place and value in modern farming is quoted from a recent federal appeal for increased beekeeping as a means of increasing our field, orchard and garden crops.

Formerly it was a common belief that bees were needed mainly to carry pollen among blooms of apple, pear, cherry, plum and minor fruit trees. Of course, this within itself was a function quite incidental to the more serious business of producing honey and beeswax. And it was not until only a few decades back that orchardists learned the important fact that bees return a bigger profit in terms of more and better fruit than they do in honey and honeycomb. Now this latest report stresses the urgent need for having bees present to fertilize the fruits and seed of many crops. "More than a score of fruits and more than 30 seed crops depend on insects for pollination," explains the government report.

Many farmers observe that yields of such insect-relying crops as alfalfa and the clovers are heavier in fields or portions of fields bordering along rough uncultivated tracts and woods where wild honeybees nest or where such pollen-carrying insects as the bumblebee find attractive nesting accommodations. It is often pointed out by careful observers that the modern wire fence has improved the farm's appearance while it has reduced the yields of many crops dependent on insects for pollination.

Therefore, beekeeping offers farmers, orchardists and vegetable gardeners a dual opportunity. Honey remains one of the finest and safest forms of sugar. Scientists who have studied its nutritional and health-promoting and health-protecting benefits recognize honey as an ideal form of sweets. It is, in fact, predigested, a kind of sugar particularly needed by sufferers from certain types of kidney ailments. It should be produced for home use and sale on every farm where facilities for beekeeping are available. There is little doubt that the American consumer would buy and consume at least ten times as much honey as is now produced, even if there were no cane and beet sugar shortages.

Then too, as this government report emphasizes, there are benefits from bees and their work of pollination which cannot longer be ignored. Not only are certain fruits and vegetables endangered by lack of proper pollination, but through the failure of legume and other basic field crops, there may be a direct reduction in future supplies of meats, hides, wool and other products of hay and pasture crops.

When the beekeeper sends these busy little workers forth in search of pollen and nectar he is rendering an indispensable public service. The honey he receives in return becomes a bonus which can be measured in terms of nutritional wealth.

Readers with any kinds of questions about bees are invited to write the editor. Often a person may hesitate to make inquiries of a primary nature about a subject accepted as fully understood. But scores of practical and theoretical questions merit the asking in an awakened interest in beekeeping. The editor invites opinions and questions on this subject.

Sow Bulbs As Late As Soil Stays Fit

Most hardy spring-flowering bulbs may be planted as late as the soil is in fit condition. Such late plantings may not flower as early as those made earlier in the fall, and often the blooms are a trifle smaller. Bulbs on hand will have to go into the ground, because they cannot be held over for planting a year hence.

It comes to the worst, even planting during a moderate spell in January will do. Such harsh treatment is bound to show next spring, but good bulbs have suf-

Early Winter Time For Pruning Climbers

Hardy climbers are pruned most easily in early winter when the foliage has fallen and their framework is plainly visible. Some kinds may require just a little thinning to force all nourishment into a set of selected branches. Others such as the trumpet vine (Bignonia) often are deprived of all the growth made during the season now ended.

Wisterias which should have been pruned of their long, slender branches earlier in the season will need attention at this time. Remember that the flower trusses develop from the lower ends of this season's shoots, so these should not be cut back completely. A six or eight inch stump will suffice to give the desired number of flower trusses.

PLANTING OF GARDEN LILIES

Steps to insure success with garden lilies include deep planting of many kinds, omission of manure from the planting hole, placing the bulbs on their sides while enveloping them in coarse sand, and keeping life away from them. Properly handled, they are among the flowers easy to grow.

WISTARIA REQUIRES PATIENCE

Careful attention to pruning and the avoidance of overfertilization sometimes will induce a wistaria to bloom. Some seedling plants, however, require as long as twenty or thirty years before they flower.

Efficient recuperative powers to come back strong the following season.

Care for Hoses—Look over the garden hose and be sure that all water is drained out of it before the hose is stored for winter, says A. O. Rasmussen, Penn State ornamental horticulturist.

Extract Fall Honey—Fall honey should be removed from the hive as soon as possible and extracted without delay to avoid the crystallization of the honey.

Select Exhibits Now—Farmers are urged to select corn and potato exhibits now for the Pennsylvania Farm Show which will be resumed in January at Harrisburg. J. B. R. Dickey, extension agronomist of the Pennsylvania State college, says the best specimens can be selected at harvesting time.

Potatoes for Hogs—Cull potatoes—those damaged in harvesting or too small for marketing—can be disposed of as hog feed. Their feed value is about one-fourth that of corn, and improves with cooking.

U. S. HOUSING IS SCRAMBLED UP ONCE MORE

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Oct. 28 (AP)—The housing picture is all scrambled anyway. But now something else comes into it.

One of those seldom-mentioned things—foreign exchange—was behind President Truman's sudden move on lumber late yesterday. He made lumber—imported into this country for construction use—duty-free.

The reasons, all linked together, go like this:

1. Lumber is needed because there's a housing shortage. We produce a lot ourselves. But we need more.

2. Most of the building lumber we import comes from Canada. We have to encourage Canadians to ship lumber here.

3. A few months ago the Canadian government changed the foreign exchange rate of the dollar.

This would tend to discourage shipping lumber here. Here is why: Until last July 5 the Canadian dollar was worth ten per cent less than the American dollar. Then the Canadian government made the American and Canadian dollars equal.

Offsets New Change

To offset the change in the dollar exchange rate, our government decided to make building lumber duty-free.

We expected to get from Canada this year about 1,000,000,000 feet of lumber. That's about as much as we can expect. The Canadians need lumber themselves. Besides, they have to ship to Great Britain and elsewhere.

In this country we're producing 33,000,000,000 feet of lumber this year.

Of that total about 14,000,000,000 feet are for construction; 9,000,000,000 for housing, and the rest for other kinds of construction.

The 33,000,000,000 feet this year is no record—although last year we turned out only 27,000,000,000—for in 1925 we produced 41,000,000,000 feet.

Killed His Child Because It Cried

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 28 (AP)—District Attorney J. Calvin Lang said today a homicide charge would be filed against Herbert Miller, 38, of Altoona, in the slaying of Miller's 14-month-old son.

Lang said Miller signed a statement over the weekend relating he killed the child with a blow on the head because "its crying got on my nerves." Lang said the baby's body showed signs of advanced malnutrition.

Mother Charged With Babe's Death

Woburn, Mass., Oct. 28 (AP)—A 24-year-old unmarried mother of two was taken to East Cambridge jail Friday to be held without bail on a charge of murder of her two-months-old daughter, whose starved body was found yesterday in an attic.

District Attorney George E. Thompson, who said the mother—tall, attractive Gladys Hall—admitted putting the infant in the attic to starve.

An autopsy showed the child died of "extreme malnutrition," the prosecutor reported. He said its skull also had been fractured but did not explain how.

Bacteriologist Will Help Safeguard Milk

Harrisburg, Oct. 28 (AP)—The State Health department today expanded its program of guarding the public milk supply with the employment of a full-time specialist to make regular bacteriological tests.

Charles Livak, a former field inspector, was named to the job by Dr. Harry W. West, secretary of health, and will serve under the direction of W. S. Anderson, head of the bureau of milk sanitation.

Previously, bacteriological tests were made in connection with the regular inspections of Pennsylvania milk plants and those outside the state which help ship into the commonwealth.

rockers at separate furniture stores, loaded them on small trucks and headed homeward, both in the Genesee area. Both returned to the newspaper and advertised the loss, yet neither was aware of the other's ad.

Modern agricultural fairs in America date from colonial times when farmers put their products on display in market towns, primarily for sale.

NEW BARRIERS TO CHINA PEACE

Nanking, Oct. 28 (AP)—The government's military offensives in Manchuria and the Shantung Peninsula are building new barriers to any possibility of the resumption of formal peace negotiations here.

Observers watching minority party efforts to woo some compromise from the Kuomintang (government party) and the communists are amazed that the government's military leaders would set off these campaigns at a time when the possibility of negotiating some new ceasefire agreement hung in the balance.

Some observers saw in these developments proof of reports frequently heard in Nanking that some military leaders are running the government rather than the government running the military. They declared these commanders are so filled with the success of their North China campaigns that they are heedless of the peace efforts which more moderate Kuomintang leaders are pursuing.

The communists' Yenan radio today called the government's land offensive against Antung and its combined sea and land assault on Chefoo the first fruits of a military conference conducted in Peiping a few days ago by the government chief of staff, Gen. Chen Cheng.

In Peiping, the newspaper Hsin Sheng Pao reported a government army had reached Fengchengsein, only 35 miles from Antung, in its drive toward that important communication center on the Manchuria-Korean border. The communists, suffering setbacks on all fronts, turned to guerilla tactics. Two bands penetrated suburbs of Tientsin but were driven off after capturing a village chief. A third harassed a village near Peiping.

Tavern Keeper Is Acquitted In Slaying

Snow Hill, Md., Oct. 28 (AP)—Mrs. Iva P. Krumholz, 43, Princess Anne tavern keeper, was free today after an all-male jury, deliberating only 17 minutes, acquitted her of a charge that she shot and killed a Vineland, N. J., poultry dealer.

The verdict was returned Friday night, ending the five-day trial on a happy note for the thrice-married woman who, on the witness stand, had maintained her innocence in the death of Rollin Roscoe Riley.

Her eyes filled with tears on hearing the verdict. Seconds later she smiled gladly, shaking hands with her attorneys.

The state had failed in its attempt to enmesh her in a web of circumstantial evidence, but before the jury received the case, cross-examination of one of the defendant's sons brought a tense moment.

Charles F. Taylor, 20, a son by a former marriage, had testified he had complained to his mother about her association with the 38-year-old Riley the night of June 4, a day before he was shot. Then the state asked if he, Taylor, had killed the poultry buyer. Defense objections were sustained, however, and the court ruled that Taylor need not reply. He remained silent.

COOLING-OFF PERIOD

Butte, Mont., (AP)—The owner of a private garage checked with police in an attempt to discover the owner of an automobile who had disappeared in 1943 after paying six months parking fees in advance.

The owner was located quickly enough. The owner was William Holdorf, state highway patrolman at Butte, from whom the machine had been stolen three and a half years earlier.

EMPLOYMENT IS GAINING IN PA.

Harrisburg, Oct. 28 (AP)—Employment in Pennsylvania industries gained 1.4 per cent in August over the previous month and 5.1 per cent over August, 1945, to reach 2,405,170, the Department of Labor and Industry reported today.

Weekly payrolls totalled $105,479,955, in August, 5.3 per cent more than in July, and 15.2 per cent greater than in August, 1945.

The largest gains in employment in both manufacturing and non-manufacturing industries were in the construction and building materials field, the jump for the former being 36.9 per cent over a year ago and for the latter 28.5 per cent. Payrolls and total weekly hours for the same periods (this year and

Analyzes Future Of Atomic Power Plants

Philadelphia, Oct. 28 (AP)—C. F. Wagner, Westinghouse Electric Corporation's central station engineering manager, says that "in such low-coal producing areas as Connecticut, Minnesota, South Dakota and Washington, atomic power plants may become economically competitive with other fuels for power generation."

However, he added Thursday night in an address to the joint meeting of the Philadelphia section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, in low-coal coal producing areas, such plants would be unable to compete with present generating methods.

"Federal power commission figures," he added, "show that for the entire electrical generation industry, fuel costs are only 11 per cent of the total. Since the nuclear energy plant will cost more than the coal plant, only a portion of this 11 per cent can be saved even if the nuclear energy cost nothing. We therefore can be certain that the atomic power plant is not a panacea for the problem of creating low cost energy."

last) show a tremendous increase throughout all the industries," the Department stated, explaining the holidays incident to V-J Day in 1945 account for some of it because of the loss of working time and corresponding loss in pay.

WE ARE

Trying to Spend $50,000,000

There is Plenty of Natural Gas but no way to get it to you this Winter in Sufficient Quantities

Today, it is as hard to get steel pipe as it is to get automobiles and houses.

Like coal, sugar, housing and many other necessities, gas is in short supply now and will remain so until construction material to build the planned pipelines, compressor stations, storage and distribution plants becomes available.

Anticipating heavy consumption, The Columbia Gas System began in 1945 a $50,000,000 construction program to increase our capacity to serve you.

Despite our utmost efforts, shortages of steel and other necessary items have made it impossible for us to complete the enlargements planned.

There is enough gas at the source! But the same economic maladjustment that prevents you from getting the goods you want, prevents our principal suppliers from building the facilities and delivering to The Columbia Gas System an adequate supply of gas from the vast gas reserves in Texas.

The Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation, of which GETTYSBURG GAS CORPORATION is a subsidiary, operates 32,629 miles of transmission and distribution lines. It owns in excess of 9,000 producing gas wells and purchases the entire output of approximately 6,500 wells owned by independent producers. In addition, it is now taking into its transmission and distribution systems 160,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day from Texas through the long distance pipelines of its principal suppliers. Further, we have now placed in underground storage reservoirs 42 billion feet of gas which is available against high winter demand, 4 billion cubic feet more than we have ever before stored.

However the demand for natural gas has increased in unprecedented proportions. Much of this increase—as much as 125,000,000 additional cubic feet on a severely cold day—is due to the increasingly popular demand for gas for home heating.

So, in common with suppliers of other vitally needed commodities, your Gas Company will experience shortages in its gas supply and it may be necessary to curtail your fuel supply in severe weather.

You can conserve the available supply of gas just as you can—and do—conserve sugar, fats, meat, and other "short" commodities.

Use your available supply of gas sparingly and wisely. By doing this now and continuing to do so, you will be helping yourself and your neighbor. For the gas you save today will be stored against the time when your community is experiencing a period of severe cold. Your Gas Company will make suggestions as to how you can conserve your supply.

Meanwhile, The Columbia Gas System is exerting every possible effort to increase its production, its capacity, and to obtain larger deliveries from its suppliers so that curtailment in time of weather crisis can be kept to a minimum.

TRIPLE TRADE

Warren, Ohio, (A)—This triple play developed into three home runs:

A Long Island man, moving here, advertised he would swap his Long Island apartment for one in Warren, but got no direct takers.

A Warren couple, moving to St. Louis advertised the Long Island apartment in exchange for one in the Missouri city, and landed a trade.

The Long Islander took the Warren couple's apartment, they took the one in St. Louis and the Missourians took the one in New York.

Chapter 7
He awakened to radiant afternoon sunshine and the effect was good because in the river valley not very far away was Freya, and Ernst was still alive. Just as he finished dressing Conrad arrived with some soup and coffee.

"I'll have some tea with you," he said cheerfully as Niel started on the soup.

"How long have you known Freya?" asked Niel abruptly. Conrad sat motionless for such a long time he didn't think he intended to answer so he started to eat again until their eyes meeting made him stop.

"Most of my life," said Conrad heavily.

"And she never told me. I can't understand that. We are near Freiburg, aren't we?"

"How did you know?"

"It's marked on the bed."

"That's one for you," grinned Conrad.

"I'd like to see Freya, you could arrange it."

"You don't understand."

Niel broke in on him, "I know you could."

"It's impossible!"

"When a man understands why he wants to do a thing it becomes less impossible." The impact of this meaning shattered Conrad's reserve.

"Don't talk like this," he said impatiently, "it's sheer nonsense. I can't do it." The way he spoke Niel knew he wanted to do it.

"I have no influence with them," he went on. "I'm a surgeon. I studied ten years to be a surgeon and that's what I am, all I want to be."

"But you can't always hide yourself in your work," insisted Niel passionately, "personal security is everyone's business and sooner or later each of us has to fight for his own little portion." For a moment Conrad looked down at his hands, long slender fingers clenched as if it would be a relief to smash something and his compressed lips gave him a stern, melancholy look. "What makes you talk like this?"

Slowly Niel answered: "Perhaps losing my own personal security has blacked out my conventional inhibitions, perhaps because I'm trapped in the one country in the world where my ideal of freedom is considered degenerate and perhaps too because Freya is so close when I never expected to find her for a long time." Conrad wheeled on him so close that he saw the reflection of his face in Conrad's eyes.

"Don't count on seeing her!" Their eyes held.

"You must arrange it," begged Niel, "if it will do her no harm." He felt no shame in asking. Since last night knowing how close she was he craved to hear her voice, to feel again the emotions of their close friendship.

"Don't let him guess how you feel," he pointed down significantly. "Believe me the less he hears her name the better. Do I impress that on you?" A dark finality in his voice pierced down to the hidden fear in Niel.

"Isn't she safe, she and Ernst both?"

"They'll be less safe if you insist on asking questions about her. Hush, she's coming." He had left the door unlocked and the sudden entrance of the masked man startled Niel into the same uneasiness he experienced during the past evening. Between himself and this man he felt a strange emotional involvement and he drew back as if from the deep current of a rampaging river. Even Conrad seemed different, more remote in his presence. The man advanced, his mastery of the situation hung like an aura around him.

"I hope I'm not intruding on your lunch, captain."

"I've finished." He noticed the man's voice held no German accent.

"Take my chair," offered Conrad walking over to the window but watching them from the corner of one eye.

As the man sat down Niel adroitly walked behind him to get the tobacco jar from the mantel. Visibly the man stiffened. Niel thought, he's none too trusting. He glanced down at the back of his neck where the tanned skin was smooth and healthy, dark brown hair growing in an upward sweep. He was a young man. Facing him once more Niel looked straight through the narrow eye slits of his mask.

"My mask bothers you, Mr. Dana?"

Niel heard the quick intake of Conrad's breath before he said coolly: "It's rather a melodramatic touch."

The man laughed. "Be that as it may, I did not come to discuss my mask."

"I've been thinking about your friendship with Madame Runstedt." As he paused Conrad frowned and shook his head at Niel.

"It occurs to me," went on the man, "that she may at some time have mentioned to you the name of Steiner, Franz Steiner."

The name did not register at once with Niel then it struck him with a violence almost physical, Steiner the composer, Freya's teacher.

"But it wasn't Franz," he murmured aloud, "it was Stefan Steiner, the composer. He lived near Freya when she was a girl." The man nodded.

"And you are—"

"His foster son. My wife is his daughter. I am Franz Steiner."

Niel surveyed him calmly. "That name means nothing to me beyond the fact it's German, which is to be expected now that I find myself near Freiburg." A fierce pleasure swept him when Franz jerked around to glare at Conrad.

"You told him!"

"He needed no telling."

"It was the sparrows, Herr Steiner," grinned Niel. "They twittered, 'Des ein ger stadt at sunrise.' Steiner was on his feet."

"I see you are a wit, Mr. Dana. I'm glad for your sake my name was not known to you, perhaps it will have greater significance in the future."

SKIPPY MINISI LEADS PARADE
FOR TOP AWARD

B. RAY PETERSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tony (Skippy) Minisi, Penn's No. 1 candidate for All-American honors, stepped out over the week-end to remind the experts that he's definitely in the running for the coveted award.

The sparkplug in Navy's backfield last season reversed the position this year and ran roughshod over his former Navy teammates to score three touchdowns himself and then pass seven yards for a fourth that put Penn well on the way to its final 32 to 19 victory before more than 70,000 fans at Franklin Field.

Penn's fourth victory of the season placed it among Pennsylvania's four unbeaten and untied teams as the season neared the mid-season mark.

Along with Penn in the undefeated-untied bracket were Thiel, Muhlenberg and California State Teachers', who, with the exception of Thiel, which has one of the smallest enrollments in the state, experienced comparatively easy victories.

Close Victory

The Greenville team, which has scored 60 points against its opponents' six, barely edged out Edinboro State Teachers' 7 to 6 to chalk up its fifth straight win.

Muhlenberg, also boasting a five-game winning streak and one of the top scoring teams in the nation, knocked off Franklin and Marshall 40 to 7 as California State Teachers' also was taking its fifth straight in subduing Clarion Teachers' 19 to 7.

Bucknell, scoring in every period, gained its second win of the season by defeating Lafayette 29 to 0. The Lafayette eleven crippled by injuries, failed to penetrate beyond Bucknell's 40-yard stripe.

Pitt bowed to Purdue 10 to 8 after the boilermakers scored a field goal in the final seconds of the game, and Penn State edged out Colgate 6 to 2 to spoil a homecoming day program at Hamilton, N. Y.

Westminster, undefeated but twice-tied turned back Bethany 12 to 7 for its third straight win.

The University of Delaware hacked up its 26th victory without defeat since 1940 by beating Drexel Institute 52 to 0. The Blue Hens' winning streak was marred only by a 1941 tie with West Chester State Teachers'.

Results of other week-end grid games:

Morgan 28, Lincoln 0; Cheney 24,

STORM WARNING ON HAY FEVER

Washington, Oct. 28 (P)—The weather bureau is hard at work on a "storm warning" system for hay fever and asthma sufferers.

If all goes as planned, the bureau said today, it will be able to forecast 24 to 48 hours in advance when a mass of air with high ragweed pollen content will reach a given area.

This will give the sneezers time to
(1) get out or (2) lay in a supply of handkerchiefs and tissues.

Dr. W. C. Jacobs, weather bureau climatologist, explained that the region of greatest ragweed pollen intensity is southern Indiana. Many other areas also have it in sufficient quantity to load up the atmosphere.

Once there, air currents carry the pollen hundreds and even thousands of miles. Pollen over southern Indiana, for example, may arrive a few days later over Washington and touch off a chorus of sneezes and sniffles.

So now the climatologists plan to track down these pollen concentrations and map their course.

They are doing their preliminary research on weather records and pollen counts for Washington and St. Louis.

The first permanent fair association in the United States grew out of a cattle show inaugurated in Pittsfield, Mass., in 1810.

'Vote Squads' To Work November 5

Washington, Oct. 28 (P)—Don't be surprised if someone rings your doorbell or your telephone a week from tomorrow and asks:
"Do you know what day this is?
Have you done your duty?"

The caller will be a member of hundreds of "vote squads" organized by the two major parties and by the CIO- political action committee in an effort to persuade all eligible voters in the nation's 130,000 precincts to mark ballots on election day.

State election officials and political leaders have estimated that 59,669,656 persons are qualified to vote and that 35,421,339, or 59 per cent, probably will.

Thousands of qualified voters do not take the trouble to vote, especially in off year elections when the President is not at stake. That's where the "vote squads" come in because both Republican and Democratic campaign chiefs believe a heavy vote this year will benefit their respective parties.

MARTIN CALLS FOR WORK BY REPUBLICANS

(By The Associated Press)

Governor Martin has appealed to all Republican workers to get busy during the last week of the campaign so there will be "no danger to our success by reason of over-confidence."

He said the present campaign is different "from any the Republicans have ever received from the old, historic Democratic party."

Martin declared that the PAC, which is supporting the Democratic candidates, "uses fifth column methods. It has a strong slush fund," he warned, "and is strongly organized."

Meanwhile Republican State
Chairman M. Harvey Taylor said the Democrats have "disowned"
U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey and are concentrating their efforts on electing John S. Rice as governor.

Democrats "Doomed"

"All over the state the word is out to toss Guffey overboard," Taylor said in a statement issued over the week-end at Republican state headquarters. "Not withstanding this strategy, the Democratic campaign is falling apart at the seams," declared Taylor.

"If the Democrats think they can salvage their ticket by pinning their hopes on Rice, they are doomed to be disappointed," predicted the G.O.P. state chairman.

Daniel B. Strickler, Republican candidate for Lt. governor, said in a statement at Lancaster yesterday that a prime responsibility of the state government is to make certain that farmers "are never forced to surrender their own business or the privilege of using their own judgment."

Martin seeking Guffey's seat in the U. S. Senate, Attorney General
James H. Duff, Republican nominee for governor, Strickler, and William S. Livengood, trying for a third term as secretary of internal affairs, face a busy week as they turn into the final days of the campaign.

Hotel Strike Is
'Stalemated'

Pittsburgh, Oct. 28 (P)—The strike of about 1,800 employees of eight major hotels here was still stalemated today but negotiations were set to resume tomorrow.

Representatives of both the Pittsburgh Hotels association and the striking AFL Hotel and Restaurant Workers Alliance reported no weekend developments as the work stoppage moved into its fifth week.

The union seeks a 20 per cent wage increase. The hotels have offered boosts of four to eight cents.
